HISTORY OF HUDSON

The city of Hudson, N. Y., the first American city, was incorporated by the legislature of the State of New York in 1785. Its charter was the first granted to an American city after the independence of our country had been achieved and four years before the first inauguration of George Washington. The land contained in the corporate limits of this charter was greater in extent than now, including all of the present town of Greenport and part of the town of Stockport as far north as Major Abraham Staats' creek.

The early settlers in this community were people from Holland, who came fully one hundred and twenty-five years before the date of our city. With their Dutch habits of thrift and enterprise, they soon had prosperous farms and convenient dwellings and were a happy and contented people. Near the river, where our city is now built, were two stores and a landing from which they sent their vessels laden with their products to market and to which they returned with the necessary articles for their own use. The surrounding territory was called Claverack and the landing, Claverack Landing.

In 1783, several merchants engaged in whale fishing and navigating the deep seas, residing in Nantucket, Martha Vineyard, and Providence, Rhode Island, under the leadership of the brothers, Thomas and Seth Jenkins, agreed to form an association and transfer their business from the exposed coast of New England to a place more inland. They had suffered great losses from the depredations of the British Fleet during the Revolution and they planned to guard against such disasters in the future. After considering several locations, they decided on the site where our city now stands. The river front had an entirely different appearance in those days, than now. There was no railroad along the river and Promenade Hill advanced more into the river causing the two bays to stand out more prominently. The one to the south, with the hill to the north and Mt. Merino to the south, was a splendid harbor, suitable for the anchorage of their largest vessels. Its size may be determined when it is told that where the new Central Railroad depot now stands, they built their largest shipyard.

They bought the land and the first families began to arrive in the fall of 1783 and the spring of 1784. The proprietors, as they were called, made a map of the place, laid out lots and streets and immediately commenced their municipal life. They had brought with them their ships and stock in trade and all their worldly goods. One of the first municipal acts was to have their city incorporated in the year above mentioned. They were all able men full of enterprise and possessed with ample wealth to carry out their undertakings. Dwellings, stores, warehouses, factories and ships were erected and built as soon as possible. The growth of the city was remarkable. Its importance was established at once and a great many people from New England and other parts of New York came and joined them in their commercial activities.

The principal businesses were ship building and the allied trades; whale fishing and the rendering of oil and the manufacturing of candles, and general shipping and commerce. They obtained cargoes for their vessels from the surrounding country as far east as the Berkshire hills and sent them in trade to South America, West Indies and Europe. In their whale fishing voyages they sailed on every sea and brought home great wealth to their owners. Hudson in 1790 became a port of entry and remained one until 1815.

In 1812 their business began to decline. The long war of America for commercial independence culminating in active warfare in this year, was very disastrous for the shipping interests of the country. There was a big demand for neutral ships and many of them were lost and others entered the Atlantic coast trade. With the embargoes and non-intercourse acts of the Federal government the merchants of Hudson were almost ruined. Commercial depression and great losses came to all the citizens of our city.

In 1829 the business of whale fishing was renewed and under the active direction of Judge Robert A. Barnard, prosperity and wealth began to return. A company was organized and for several years the voyages were successfully conducted. The most valuable cargo ever brought home from a whale voyage occurred during this time. Notwithstanding these successes, another decline began to set in and the men of Hudson gradually changed their business ventures into other fields. In the year 1845 the last ship was sold.

The causes of this second decline were natural and economic. Railroads were being built and diverting traffic into other channels; whale oil and candles gave way to natural gas and petroleum, the Federal government was growing stronger and this country being at peace with all the world, the coast cities could carry on fishing and general shipping more safely and advantageously. Our merchants and business men turned their thoughts to manufacturing and allied trades and our city's commercial growth has been increasing along these lines ever since.

While the growth of the city for the first twenty-five years was remarkable, the population and wealth has steadily increased from year to year, notwithstanding the corporate limits of the city being reduced by the setting aside of the town of Greenport and the part given to Stockport.

Hudson has given its full share of the splendid men and women who have helped to make our nation great; and the citizens who remained among us have engaged in all the active duties and cares of social and municipal life and have given to Hudson its due share of public and social institutions. Hudson is built upon a hill, sanitary and healthy. A noble scenery all around. The Catskill mountains to the west, our magnificent river in front of us and the New England hills to the east.

As a commercial and manufacturing city our location is advantageous. We are at the head of ship navigation by the river, railroads centering here from the north, south and east; a first class commodious ferry connecting with the west. All these facilities help our merchants and manufacturers in conducting their business promptly and profitably and have developed a happy and contented community. Our city is surrounded by prosperous farms and nearby towns and villages, which are conducting successful manufacturing and commercial enterprises; and these units and social groups are a part of our municipal life, so much so that Hudson and its activities cover half of the county of Columbia.

Those of us who have lived here all our lives are familiar with the facts of the past and the realities of the present and have watched this city grow and become modern, with its new and useful public buildings and the public life they inspire; our municipal improvements make the city a better place to live in; our splendid churches and the social life which sustains them; our schools and the educational advantages of our people; our successful merchants and business men supported by our strong financial institutions; we can well afford to be proud of our city and invite others to join us, remembering always that it is not so important how big our city is, but how the spirit of co-operation animates our citizens.

Are You Easy to find?

Can people locate your product quickly after your creative advertising has made them want it? If not, there is still room to

Lower the Cost of Distribution

Failure to connect demand with the local source of supply is the cause of great waste in advertising. Directory Advertising ("Reference Advertising") shortens the path from buyer to seller by putting information about local supply in a logical place for buyers to look.

Professor Cherington said (at the Philadelphia Convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World): "—my experience as a consumer makes me feel positive that an enormous amount of advertising effort has been wasted because directories have not been made to serve the purpose which they might serve."

The Publisher of this Directory will gladly co-operate to make you
